

Content

Many children and young people who receive support from child and youth welfare services also experience mental health problems and are therefore in need of adequate child and adolescent mental health services. Similarly, it is often the case that children and young people who are already using mental health services also require support by children and youth welfare services. Children and young people with such complex needs are therefore reliant on services which are delivered by a variety of disciplines and services, which work together in a well-coordinated system of helping professions.

However, vaguely defined responsibilities, financial pressures, and differing professional viewpoints, amongst other factors, often hinder successful interprofessional collaborative practice. As a result, children and young people sometimes do not receive the best possible services, but instead are moved back and forth between both systems: interventions are discontinued unsuccessfully. Costs might actually increase, while the prognosis for children and adolescents deteriorates.

Target Audience

Interprofessional collaborative practice between child and youth services and mental health services remains a hot topic with a lot of potential to bring about change. The conference therefore aims to present, collect, and discuss interdisciplinary perspectives, emerging research, and innovative interprofessional collaboration already practiced in the field. Session formats include presentations and panels covering perspectives across local, national and European contexts.

Target audience includes professionals working across the fields of social work, child and adolescent psychiatric services, pediatrics, clinical psychology, and psychotherapy.

Registration

Attendance to the conference is free. Please register until the 31.12.2014 by emailing koop-fachtag@haw-hamburg.de.

Location

University of Applied Sciences Hamburg (HAW)
Berliner Tor 2

Aula

20099 Hamburg.

Travel to Campus Berliner Tor

Getting here

From central station take the underground train U1 in the direction of Volksdorf/Großhansdorf/Ohlstedt to the station Lohmühlenstraße. From there follow the map. Alternatively take the underground U2/U3 or the S-Bahn S1/S2/S11 or S21 to the station Berliner Tor. From there follow the map.

Contact

Prof. Dr. Gunter Groen, Astrid Jörns-Presentati
EU-Projekt RESME, CC-Kids
For more information please contact:
koop-fachtag@haw-hamburg.de

Event Management

Zentrum für Praxistentwicklung – ZEPRA

RESME | On the Borders between Residential Child Care and Mental Health Treatment

International Conference

Let's work together!

Interprofessional collaborative practice at the boundary between Children and Youth Welfare Services and Mental Health Services

12th of February 2015

HAW Hamburg

Main Building Berliner Tor

ZEPRA
ZENTRUM FÜR PRAXISENTWICKLUNG

Conference Agenda

8.30
Registration & Reception

9.15
Prof. Dr. Gunter Groen & Astrid Jörns-Presentati
(HAW Hamburg, RESME)

9.30
Detlef Scheele, Senator of the Ministry of Labour and Social Affairs, Hamburg
Welcome Address

9.45
Prof. Dr. Jörg. M. Fegert (University Hospita Ulm)
Nothing new since § 35a, or: Why isn't inclusion talked about more in the residential child care system, and in child and adolescent psychiatry?

10.15
Prof. Dr. Christian Schrappner (Uni Koblenz-Landau)
Why is cooperation between child and adolescent psychiatry and residential child care so difficult? Experiences, findings, and perspectives on boundary work.

10.45 BREAK

11.15
Prof. Panos Vostanis (University of Leicester/UK)
Inter-agency issues in the UK: A case study of residential and child mental health services.

11.45
Prof. Dr. Birgit Bütow (Universität Salzburg/Österreich)
& Prof. Dr. Susanne Maurer (Universität Marburg)
The spectrum of perspectives in the cooperation between child and youth welfare services, and child and adolescent psychiatry

12.15
Prof. Dr. Michael Schulte-Markwort
(Uni-Klinikum Hamburg-Eppendorf)
Seemingly insurmountable differences - child and adolescent psychiatry and pedagogy.

12.45 LUNCH

14.00 -15.30 SYMPOSIA

Symposium I

Dr. Marc Schmid (University Psychiatric Hospital Basel)
*Young people with complex needs in residential child care
– a collaborative challenge*

Dr. Norbert Beck (Überregionales Beratungs- und Behandlungszentrum Würzburg)
Transitional care needs of children and young people transitioning back into residential child care after inpatient treatment: Results of a representative needs-analysis

Martin Kühn
(Traumapädagogisches Institut Norddeutschland)
Trauma Pedagogy

Symposium II

Prof. Dr. Ulrike Loch (Universität Klagenfurt/Österreich) Cooperation in child protection: Child protection at the boundary of residential child care, child mental health services and adult mental health services.

Dr. Bernhard Prankel (Klinik für Kinder- und Jugendpsychiarie Rotenburg/Wümme)
Developing a professional framework for cooperative care and treatment of children and young people.

Dr. Alexander Naumann & Jens Eckart Fischer
(Klinik für Kinder- und Jugendpsychiatrie Lüneburg)
Collaborative associations with the aim of helping young people with complex psychosocial needs: An element of cooperation between child and adolescent psychiatry, child and youth welfare services, and schools in the context of the state mental health plan in Lower Saxony.

Symposium III (Language: English)

Dr. Mark Smith (University of Edinburgh/Scotland)
Exploring the epistemological differences between mental health and residential child care

Prof. Dr. Jorge Fernandez del Valle
(Universidad Oviedo/Spain)
Mental health disorders of children in residential child care. Prevalence and treatments

Astrid Jörns-Presentati (HAW Hamburg)
On the Borders between Residential Child Care and Mental Health Care in Europe: Development and Evaluation of an International Pilot-Course to enhance Interprofessional Collaborative Practice

15.30 BREAK

16.00
Penal Discussion

16.45
Closing Address and Farewell

17.00 END

